Learning Outcome

Identify and describe events in the news in a range of social and work contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about friendship and relationships.
- I can talk about habits in the past.
- I can talk about people's past experiences.

Ask your partner:

- What did you and your friends use to do for fun when you were younger?
- In your opinion, how have things changed for kids these days?

Let's Explore!

Sally blogs about her interview with George. What did he use to do back in his day?

* "Back in my day" means when I was young.

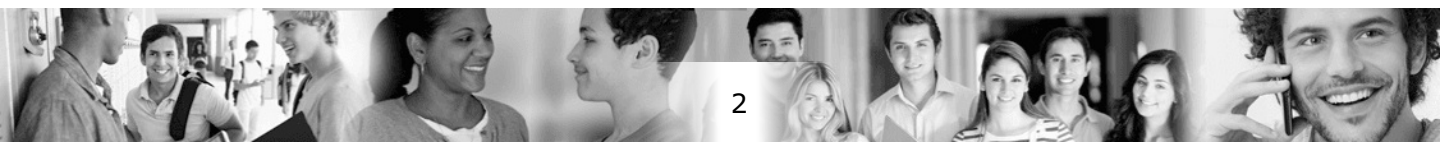

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Sally: Last week, I watched a movie about friendship set in the 1960s. It got me thinking about how things have changed since then. I decided to interview my next door neighbor. His name is George. He was born in 1948, not long after WWII. George, what did you and your friends use to do when you were a kid?

George: Back in my day, we loved to play outside. We would meet up at our secret hideout. My friend Teddy used to bring records and we would listen to and sing along with the songs. Gordie, my best friend back then, was super at acting out Elvis songs.

Sally: Did you guys use to watch TV at all?

George: Not so much. My parents didn't have a TV until I was about ten years old. My friends and I used to play with action figures like G.I. Joe (I think that came out in 1964). We would ride our bikes all around the neighborhood. We would usually pull up outside the corner store and tease the girls. I haven't talked to Teddy and Gordie in a while. We should catch up!

Let's Practice!

Learning Points

Used to and Would

Would and used to have similar meanings. They are both used to describe something that happened regularly in the past but doesn't happen any longer.

However, there is an important difference between used to and would.

Would is not used unless you know that the time frame is in the past, while used to does not require this.

Read the following example:

We would visit India every summer when we were children.

When we were children refers to a past time frame and therefore makes the meaning of would clear.

We used to visit India every summer.

Here, you do not have to include a past time frame since the meaning of used to is clear.

Examples:

- I used to go out with a guy before I left for culinary school.
- When we were in high school, Ted would write me poems and send me flowers every week.

Phrasal Verbs

Phrasal verbs consist of a verb and one or more preposition or adverb (called particles). They are common, especially in informal spoken English. The meaning of phrasal verbs is often completely different from the meaning of the verb alone. Phrasal verbs can either be separable or inseparable.

Separable phrasal verbs always require an object.

The object of a phrasal verb can go either between the verb and the preposition or after the preposition.

Examples:

I handed in my homework.

I handed my homework in.

If the object of the sentence is a pronoun, it must go between the two parts of the phrasal verb.

Example:

Learning Points

I handed it in.

Some phrasal verbs are inseparable, so the verb must be directly followed by its preposition or adverb. Otherwise, the meaning of the phrasal verb will be incorrect. Some inseparable phrasal verbs never use an object.

Examples:

- get up = get out of bed
I get up at seven o'clock every morning.
- take off = leave the ground
The plane took off on time.
- look out = beware! be careful!
Look out! That car is going to hit you!
