Let's Start!

What has it been like working for Google?

Learning Outcome

Identify and describe events in the news in a range of social and work contexts.

Ask your partner:

- Would you want to work for a large company like Google? Why or why not?
- What do you think the phrase "work hard, play hard" means?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about social activities.
- I can talk about people's past experiences.
- I can talk about feelings and reactions.

Let's Explore!

A Google employee writes about the amazing food and the impressive digs* at his work place. What do you think?

* "Digs" means rooms or living space. It is casual language.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

What has it been like working for Google? Interesting, fun, surprising, insightful, inspiring and impactful. I went into Google with my own expectations of what the experience would be like and what I would end up doing. One thing which I've grown to appreciate is the amazing food and impressive digs. Google has stunning food. It is not only yummy, but it is fresh and diverse.

Each employee personalizes their environment. There are vibrant colors everywhere and you can feel the energy of people bustling here and there. One co-worker of mine created a Zen Oasis in her cubicle. She always came out reinvigorated and relaxed.

It is fun to work in a creative environment where collaboration is maximized by an open-concept space where you are never far from a nice view. Employees at Google are passionate and spirited - they always have energy regardless of the size of the project. People work hard and play hard and that energy feeds yours - it's a win-win for everyone!

Learning Points

The Present Perfect Tense vs The Simple Past

You use the Present Perfect tense to talk about an action or event that is connected to the present in some way.

You use the Simple Past tense to talk about a finished action or event not connected to the present.

It is common to mix both the Simple Past and Present Perfect when you talk about differences between the past and present.

When you can use the Present Perfect there is a connection between what happened in the past and now. You use time markers like for, just, ever, during, with the Present Perfect.

When you can use the Simple Past the time is always past. You use time markers connected with the past like: then, ago, yesterday, when I was ... with the Simple Past.

Examples:

- What has it been like working for Google?
- I went in to Google with my own expectations.
- One thing I've grown to appreciate is the amazing food.

Learning Points

Adjectives About Feelings and Reactions

You talk about feelings and reactions using adjectives. It is important to use the correct kind of adjective - it is common for English language learners to confuse the two kinds of adjectives when talking about feelings and reactions.

1. -ed adjectives

Adjectives that end in -ed are used to describe how a person feels, like annoyed, fascinated, entertained, surprised, worried or tired.

I feel relaxed.

She comes reinvigorated.

2. -ing adjectives

Adjectives that end in -ing are used to describe things and situations, like annoying, entertaining, surprising, worrying or tiring. These adjectives describe the effect something has on a person.

Working at Google is interesting. (It makes me feel interested.)

Work is sometimes surprising, too. (It makes me feel surprised.)

Examples:

- She always comes out of her office reinvigorated and relaxed.
- Working for Google is interesting.
